Subs: Furlon Cooper 6, Leroy Joshua Lee 7, Hans Grönemeyer -. CH: 3 games down & without a win but still with the strongest side in the division - they are holding everyone else up! Next up Champions ELA, oh goodie!! However things don't seem so bleak following last weeks impressive 2-2 away draw at MM's Olympic. Another change of formation this week & plenty of changes to the starting line up as manager Stu Henfrey looks to keep all the internationals happy & in with shout of caps. EE: ELA~"LAST WEEK"~Burton predicted the worst after a terrible start to the campaign and an encounter with Kenkai Veleno looming, however without Captain Yakhimovich Elementals managed to conjure up a 3-2 win to take them 2nd in the table. What a difference 1 week can make! ~TRANSFERS~After a flurry of pre-season activity there has been no further deals at the Fieldview ThunderDome. Burton has had alot of enquiries, mainly for the same 2-3 players but is currently very happy with his team and while he is always interested in improving the side he does not feel he has enough resources to add a skill point. ~THIS WEEK~ Sees a trip to Stu's Celtic Hearts. Stu has a very good side in the making and next season will see all the high cappers come to fruitarian so Burton is hoping for some success over Hearts before then, however with Yakhimovich still out the skill point gap is only 3 and the best Burton can hope for is a draw. Prediction 1-1 ~INTERNATIONALS~Alot of potential International caps to be earned this week. With Van Dosmon and De Visser looking to be capped by Netherlands although De Visser has been pushed to the bench by a good run from Elites keeper. However an 8 this week could see he get a full cap. Burt should earn another full start from Australian team as although he isn't getting any form dots nor is anyone beneath him! Hammerfox will start for USA and Cuttlepurse has an outside chance of being on the bench for the USA but it is unlikely and the Milky Bar Kid has well and truly thrown his chance away with a poor performance in week 1. However 6-8 caps should be in the bank by the end of this week.
