

EINNEK NEWS

Welcome to the Week 3 turn. Thanks for those of you who noticed the team statistic errors and emailed me. I have fixed the problem and all should now be OK. The Youth League preparation continues well at my end and I hope your preparation is progressing positively in readiness for the first games in two weeks time.

Youth League News

The actual coding of the games is working well and I can now formally announce how the games will work. Every game will be played in the same manner as a senior game but the allocation of skill points will be purely based on player performances, not based on results. Each side could gain a skill point on a single player and/or lose a skill point on a single player. Nine ratings will be considered for a skill increase, while five ratings will see a skill point drop. In real terms you could lose and gain a skill point or win and lose one. If your side has two players with nine ratings the one consider to be the best performing will go up. The same will see only one player drop a skill point if your side has two players with a five rating.

Einnek Blog

At the start of last season, I started an Einnek Blog, but it kind of died due to lack of time. I plan to resurrect this feature in a week or so and use it to provide hints and discussions on factors in the game. Probably updated a couple of times a week, I will announce more next week.

Dealing Limits

With no comments regarding this on the forum or via emails. I have to assume that only the two managers who mentioned this to me are looking for the limits to be lifted. I will wait one more week to give you all a chance to comment before deciding.

Have a good weekend,
Richard.

TRANSFER LIST

EE: ~LAST WEEK~ Burton joked to himself before the game that he'd probably lose and Nedderwind would drop to a skill 4 thus missing out on caps last week and this week but was left open mouthed when it actually happened. ~TRANSFERS~ Burton has been busy in the transfer market again which brings his total deals to the season to 9 now inside 3 weeks!! In comes Pero, Mufane, Rainsbow, Reanezo, Quidel, Duggan as well as youth players Zero and Squirrelheath. Out go Osias, Centeno, Vidal, San Juan and youth players Zigfrid and Arce. Only Hammerfox, Colas, Wolfstone and Arillo remain from the squad that started the season! ~THIS WEEK~ The pink brigade visit Elementals this week. Burton is not in a confident mood following his last two results and the fact that Bambino have lost there opening two games means a ELA win is unlikely. 3-3 prediction. ~INTERNATIONALS~ Doctini, Pero and Wolfstone should start games with Hrasovac getting on the bench for Croatia. ~YOUTH TEAM~ 2 weeks to go till kick off and Burton is just one player short so no major panic. There isn't a plethora of talent in there in terms of skill 4's and skill 5's but Burton is worried about that at this stage. ~AND FINALLY~ Alberto San Juan said goodbye to the Elementals faithful to settle into his 19th change of club in a little over 4 seasons! Can any player beat that??

CH: Manager Stu Henfrey makes just the 1 change for this week's top of the table clash with Achillian Druids, new signing Boleole Kocboretti replaces Chevello Nijhuis following the transfer that also saw Artur Chakvanadze leave Hearts for FC Leithen. Samuel Essombé is enjoying probably the best form of his life & is relishing the opportunity to take Hearts top of the table & is striking up a great partnership with Einnek legend Gallies Andréz who is now on 97 career goals, hat-trick this week to make the ton?! AD: Collier Cudmore was a little bit annoyed that his neighbours had a bonfire night party and he wasn't invited.

SCP: Manager Jono McCash welcomes back Øivind Lie into the starting 11 this week, after the stars long absence due to a broken leg he suffered at the end of last season. The star striker has been sorely missed in the Prophets side, and with a mixed start to the new season, Mr McCash is now looking to capitalize on the 2 home games he has coming up. Lie has also been the source of much transfer speculation over the last few weeks, with premier champions Winchmore Radiation the latest to enquire about the stars availability.

BW: The manager has been accused by the Iron Web faithful of taking his eye off the 'senior' squad in recent weeks, with no end of youth signings and floggings flooding in whilst only one addition has been made to the first-team in young Hans Der Groot. 'It's not for lack of trying,' the manager quipped. 'We put offers out most days, but managers seem to add extra zeros whenever we come calling!'. But the gaffa is chuffed about one thing - not releasing striker Joaquim Da Silva, who has scored in both games this season. 'We received some humorous offers for him during the summer and he's finally proving that I made the right decision to turn them all down. I expect him to be a key player for Brazil team by the end of the campaign, and to be a top player for many seasons.' INTERNATIONALS: Barring injury or suspension, Redding Fairfax should make his bow for the England first team today, rounding off an impressive rise in the youngster's development.

Is all the advice from Steve Farnden that I have ignored going to pay off? A few changes to FC Leithen's first 11 will hopefully get them their first win of the season. Chevello Nijhuis and Chakvenadze looking to create an immediate impression for Bryan Cluff to prove his belief that they have a great future at Strawberry Lane. WR: Rovers Boss Steve Farnden could not hide his excitement at the prospect of his first ever match against work colleague Will Huddleston this Friday "The banter at work has intensified as the big match has got closer" He continued "Will and I sit next to each other at work on match days so the atmosphere will be electric tomorrow !!!" "We go there following a poor result against a very useful Warriors side and aim to right the wrongs against FC Leithen. !!!"

DS: Following Fridays match manager Rob Price concerned after another inept performance was further infuriated after driving passed local bookmakers 'Better Bet on us to win' to see them slash odds on Ditton Shooters not winning a single game this season from 16/1 to 3/1 - this follows an 8 game win less streak which is gathering momentum to become a new einnek record. AK: 2 highly rated new faces make their debut this week away to Ditton shooters, Goce Manev the Russian comes in to attack and the Aussie Maytland Beckett comes in to defence. "There is alot of good teams in this division but i feel we are stronger then last year with players fighting to keep their place in all postions." said Tony banks the club captain after a training session watched by the local Daily Rag.

GH: THIS WEEK: One change to the side that lost to Rael Nerrad last week, Jj Valoy Cuesta makes his Hearts debut in place of Guerrillero Heroico as the team adopt a 433 formation. LAST WEEK: Wolters was left unimpressed after his side gifted two goals to go down to defeat in front of the home fans. The performance of midfielder Reuben Gouwe was capped with a stunning solo goal. TRANSFER NEWS: Several offers have been received for South African stars Reuben Gouwe and Gornal Ship but none which the club was willing to seriously look at. PRESS NEWS: The Hearts board have been quick to get behind the manager after The Gorgie Times claimed Wolters was on the verge of being sacked after another disappointing result. Wolters himself dismissed the claim as "absolute nonsense" claiming the press should "spend more time reporting newsworthy stories and snow more support for the club".
