

EINNEK NEWS

Proposed Deal Comments

I have added a new feature today. When submitting a deal for review, both managers have the opportunity to put a small explanation as to their thinking on a deal. This is entirely optional, but if you feel some extra justification would help me to review the deal then please feel free to use it.

Youth League News

Some issues with the game play side of the coding will mean a one week delay in the start of the Youth League. We will still get the same number of games in this season, so I hope this is not too disappointing to you all. It will give the managers who still are struggling to get a squad together another week to get ready. Please remember that failure to submit both a senior and youth team each turn will see penalties and you will not receive new weekly the two youth point bonus. If you have any issues relating to the Youth League please let me know by email.

Dealing Limits

After much discussion, the dealing limit of 50 deals per season will be abolished. There will be penalties applied to morale from next week for sides who change more than five players in their starting senior side. The morale penalty will be greater the more changes made. All penalty changes will be applied prior to games being played.

Einnek Blog / Rule Book

The revised Einnek Blog is now up and running in a limited form to start with. I will use the blog to discuss areas of the game which people are talking about and also provide ad-hoc thoughts and advise on the game. I hope to provide some insight for people who have not been in the game as long as others, but I think my tips and comments will prove enlightening to everybody. The site can be reached from the Einnek One site or by going directly to www.einnek.co.uk. The rule book will also find a new home on this site. I will start to transfer sections of the rules, starting with the sections that are out-of-date on the current PDF files. This new setup will see me better able to keep the rules fully accurate.

Have a good weekend,
Richard.

CS: Last week saw Coruscant Star turn over Black Star Olympic at home by the odd goal in three. Attackers Jallabrev and Villanueva have struck up a telepathic relationship. This was further confirmed when during filming for this weeks episode of 'Star-Struck,' the pair descended upon a charity quizoke sporting almost identical attire. Host Daniel Vance seemed amused and reflected that it was a sign that metro sexuality is rife within amongst Premier League superstars. Brazilian defender Quantizao-as usual surrounded by tanned beauties-simply said "No, they are homos." The event saw the youth attackers Cash, Cato and Hurbuzi,(named Nike Firestrike) win the quizoke by first demolishing the opposition in the quiz, to accusations of pokeling. They then won the karaoke part after their rendition of "All for One" made famous by messrs Adams, Stewart and Sumner. This week manager Murphy said " Its been an interesting week, I've transfer listed Dagfinn Emil but I wont bring anyone in unless they improve what we have here. So I have had to reject a few offers. I have also had some interest in some of our sensational youngsters. They are staying put for now. I want to apologise on behalf of the club and to Black Star Olympic defender Culshaw Dauntless for discussions around his gargantuan tolly before the game. To be fair to the lad during the game he also had a stinker! This week we lost away to Winchmore. Happy for Canna getting 3 in 3 but I want the points. We will get back on the training ground during the week and put some of these mistakes to bed. I don't want to be losing matches home or away this season. Nothing less than 3 points will do next week against SVC. The lads know the standards I have at the club and I'm disappointed when they don't meet them."

CH: With a perfect start to the season, with 3 wins from 3 & sitting on top of the Premier things seem to be going very well at Hearts although Manager Stu Henfrey refuses to get carried away. "We have a tough game away this week at Veleno & they are scoring goals for fun at the moment but we have 1 of the meanest defences in the league so it will be an interesting matchup!". The match also sees the league's top 2 goal scorers go head to head with Mario McGuire, 105 goals from 101 matches, & Gallies Andrés 98 goals from 97 games. Following this weeks away trip, Hearts have back to back home games against Southern Cross Prophets & Tormenta Advertencia & while Mr Henfrey is taking nothing for granted he has said that he expects his side to win all home games if they are to stand any chance of challenging for the title this season.

SCP: Manager Jono McCash this week was spotted doing a little Jig at the weekly press conference when he got to announce that Jaimenacho Cesar would be returning to the fold. The towering centre forward was a reluctant sale last season for the Prophets, although Øivind Lie, who came in the opposite direction has more than proved his worth. "I think Jaimenacho was mismanaged at Celtic Hearts" was the shock admission from McCash. "He was played out of position and it took him longer to adjust to his new role, which is why he never maintained his amazing run of form. There will be no such problems now that he is back with us, as he will be put straight back into his centre forward role, where I know he'll shine". What was surprising is that there was no real mention of Jair Maria Rodrigues, who was Prophets longest serving player. He was the sacrificial lamb that allowed Jaimencho to move back to the Prophets. The only words manager Jono McCash had were "Manager Stu Henfrey needs to invest in getting better medical checkups!"

BW: The departure of Heron brothers Aramis and Mace Beauregard split opinion across the league in midweek with the Widows board accepting a staggering £7m offer from SVC07. Several other teams sniffed around the pair but their offers were eclipsed by the monster bid. I mulled around the idea of selling them for several weeks, asking myself what would be a bid too high to refuse. When Mr Allcock's offer arrived it wasn't far off. In realistic terms the brothers are worth less than half that amount - it would have been crazy not to accept. I wish them well and hope one day they can both represent France at the highest level.' With youth player prices being somewhat inflated until the new league kicks in as managers look to tot up their squads to the minimum 15, all that remains to be seen is how the funds are invested, with the manager notoriously trigger-happy with spare change. 'It would be easy to blow the cash and not have much to show for it. The squad needs padding out across the board - half a dozen low-key acquisitions across the youth team are what I'm aiming at.' The first of those signings was made last night via SVC themselves, with Espen Salander set to switch clubs after today's games. TEAM NEWS: The only addition to the senior squad this week is Dikongué Bilé, who goes straight into the first team. The fans will be praying that he doesn't become the latest Widow to receive negative form for a dismal outing, with no less than four defenders gaining the undesirable statistic so far this season - Foley, de Groot, Ui and Pagnini. Only the latter player remains in the squad, with his career on a knife-edge ...

LAST WEEK: Two goals from Sinko Santos was enough to give the Hearts their first win of the season and take some of the pressure off boss Wolters. PRESS NEWS: The Gorgie Times this week reported that Brazilian ace Leonardo Rocha is set to move away from the club in order to gain first team football. Rocha is yet to start a game this season and is said to be increasingly frustrated by his limited first team opportunities. Both Rocha and manager Wolters were unavailable for comment.
