Morale Changes

The discussions on the forum and blog relating to morale and its effects on the game seem to have stalled. I will assume that everyone has had made their thoughts known in the next couple of days and I will start to work out the best way forward. Please take the time to contribute, every point of view is valid and you never know, you may have the perfect thought on the subject.

Stadiums, Tickets, Advertising

I have nearly completed my proposed overhaul of the stadiums rules. Many have complained that this is a very artificial part of the game with little relevant meaning. I will be releasing my proposal on the blog over the Christmas period and I hope you all like what I propose. New to the game will be season tickets; giving your loyal fans the chance to buy their tickets for the season in advance with clubs getting the revenue in advance.

Week 9 Turn

As the next turn would normally be due to be played on December 25th, I did a quick poll to see what people preferred me to do. The option of spending all day on Christmas Day was not one I really liked and in general people were happy to have a week off and resume games on New Year's Day. So that is what we will do.

Finally, I would like to wish all of you and your families a very Merry Christmas and happy New Year. Don't forget to submit your turns before you go out partying on New Year's Eve!!!

Richard.

Subs: Tidus Wildfist 6, Jurgén Stricyt 6, Julian Greensmith 6, Sinu Encanto -. EE: ~LAST WEEK~ A great win for Elementals with a 2-1 win over Ice Cold Stu Henf's Celtic Hearts. Hearts are one of the favourites for the title and Burton was delighted to pick up all 3 points. Team is playing very well at the moment and unbeaten in 6 games in league and cup. Long may it continue! Wolfstone has been spoken to today and after the scare of a possible transfer he has been told in no uncertain terms he needs to start finding the back of the net! ~TRANSFERS~ Just the one this week but it was a big one; the giant Russian defender Kocboretti joins Elementals and goes straight into the line up for today's game. It was the expense of Aoengus 'One game one goal' Blade. Bombak, Mokena and Reanezo. This deal also sees young midfielder Vez join the club. ~THIS WEEK~ Another home fixture, this time against the worst disciplined team in the entire league, players are being advised to wear two pairs of shin pads for this game in what will be a bruising encounter, that aside Burton expects his team to continue the run of form and pick up the win that could send Elementals top of the league! ~INTERNATIONALS~ Arillo should play for Colombia with Rainbow playing for USA B team ~YOUTH NEWS~ Burton was left disappointed with a 2-2 draw in the youth game last week. Elementals had the lion share of play and 18 shots to 9 and deserved the win. However it is the first point for the youth team so Burton hopes to kick on from there. Whilst the team haven't been winning the players are improving with 3 skill rises and no skill drops in the first 3 weeks! This week sees a tricky game against Calico Lawbreakers and Burton is under no illusions that anything from this game will be a good result! ~AND FINALLY~ Glad hands being given away at this weeks home game with a copy of the 'another one bites the dust' lyrics to sing along to!

BW: Everything points to an expected defeat today - nothing moreso than the glaring void in the middle of the pitch left by the injured Americo Soto. It's a big day for his midfield partner Ulien Quadragesimo who will need to up his game even more in a week where he could join the ranks of the sk9 club. TEAM NEWS: Soto's absence necessitates a rare chance for a newcomer into the Widows midfield, so Spencer Hart reluctantly (given his past 'success' with Crusos) drafts in Spaniard Cabarello Osias who has waited patiently for his big break. Also, in an enforced move Mr Hart may well be requested by the EFA to explain the selection of Théophile Bamileke who has bypassed a youth debut this week to make his bow at leftback for the senior team! TRANSFER NEWS: A day hasn't passed this week without an offer for Jarrah Kiah, Quadragesimo or Joaquim Da Silva (or usually all three) being tabled. Last night the manager released a statement on the future of the players suggesting that with nothing worth taking seriously coming in the former pair are likely to remain at the club in the short-term, while da Silva is set to remain at the club over the winter while he gives a final big effort to settle in the area. YOUTH TEAM: If nothing else, the youth team's young strikers are on fine form - first Starbuck Dale caught the eye with a blistering opening to the season and now Espen Salander is finding the net. The manager was toying with the idea of using one as bait for a commanding defender, but is keen to see if his discoveries can continue to impress and force their way into senior recognition with a few older players on the brink of retirement.

Ulric Holtzhausen is preferred to Marcello Palma in defence. LAST WEEK: Manager Wolters was left fuming after the Hearts gave up a lead twice to eventually lose to a well organised AFC Kennington side. In a post-match interview the Hearts' boss bemoaned his side's inability to hang on to a lead once again. Wolters was also not impressed by referee Jaames Willing, who he felt was far too card happy. TRANSFER NEWS: The Hearts' fans will once again be disgruntled after another week passes without any signings. The club have been in talks with a number of clubs in an effort to strengthen the attack but as yet have been unable to agree anything.
