

EINNEK NEWS

Hello and welcome to the week 19 turn; only 3 weeks to go before the season ends and things are looking very interesting.

Transfer Panel

Some issues with the code have come to light this morning in testing and while I hope these will be rectified very quickly, the launch of the transfer panel will be delayed a day or two.

Players Stats

The issues surrounding the player statistics after the cup semi-finals have been resolved. I will now concentrate on getting the youth league information all working ready for the start of the seventh tournament in 2 weeks.

Have a good weekend,

Richard.

ME: Bumsqueak time at the Solarsphere ... two massive games up next against one side whose fate is sealed and today against a Rael Nerrad outfit Hey Big knows his team must beat to give themselves a fighting chance of avoiding the drop ... TRANSFER NEWS: With Piero Schiaparelli's suspension seemingly warding off potential suitors a deal was nevertheless nearly reached in midweek that would have taken the player to the Prem and gifted Eclipse with a signing who would have scuppered all relegation fears looming over the club. Alas a last-minute hitch collapsed the deal at the death and a stropky Schiaparelli, who has been on the brink of a return to the Prem three times in as many weeks, has returned to Italy while he serves his domestic ban. TEAM NEWS: In comes Bull signing Aren Wyngaard who has yet to impress in Einnek 1 but will be given a fresh crack of the whip by Big Spennda. Up front young Hennessy Roth, so prolific in the Youth League, stands in for his mentor Schiaparelli and will hope to get a few outings before season end to show what he can do. Finally Bunny Crowther, who was quietly impressing in the Youth League but has struggled for games recently, has been promoted to senior action this week. TRAH LEAGUE: With one game remaining and Eclipse currently sitting in a promotion spot an immediate return to D2 hangs in the balance, as does the future of many of the players: will the likes of Corcoran, Ranchford, Twisp and Quesada be promoted or be consigned to another season with the youngsters? Whether the senior team can avoid further suspensions and injuries in the coming weeks will dictate that one.
